Gex: County legally unable to help with drainage ditch erosion problem

BY TRACI BONNEY
Shirley Shipman said at Tuesday's Board of Supervisors meeting that if she doesn't receive assistance or relief from the erosion of her property, she will have no choice but to dam the ditch causing the problem. Shipman, who lives off Firetower Road in an area designated as a flood plain, said she is "tired of swimming" and tired of replacing items and fencing destroyed or damaged during heavy rainfalls. She said that during the recent rains, she has had up to nine feet of water in parts of her yard and more than five feet in the utility shed. "I lost two nights of sleep, land and some trees with this last big rain," she told the board. Shipman claims the natural drain through the area was rerouted several years ago, while the county was under the beat system of government, by a supervisor's road crew. She said the drain was moved some 50 feet or more so that it would flow through the culvert adjacent to her property. The drainage ditch, which she said was once narrow enough for her five-year-old son to step across, now measures 18 feet wide and 16 feet deep in some places, she added. She told the board that past measures by the county to halt the erosion did not work. In fact, she said, several large blocks of concrete placed in the ditch three years ago are now buried in her yard and are interfering with her grass cutting. Shipman said she has replaced three cars, three motors and three transmissions over the past few years. She also said she has lost her fence to the erosion. When board attorney Gerald Gex asked her if this problem had started before or after she

County school board seeks streamlined bid procedures

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Hancock County School Board member Kay Sones asked the board if bid openings could be done prior to meetings in order to save time. Presently all bids are opened and read at board meetings. Depending on what the purchases are, the board usually sends the bids back for a recommendation and makes its selection at the next meeting. Sones suggested three designees open bids when they arrive, send them to the affected department for recommendation and then present all the information to the board for selection.

Board President Frank Miller suggested that a price ceiling be included in any bid openings. When large (over $2500) bids are received, Miller felt the board should conduct initial openings, to avoid any potential questions from the public. All members of the board agreed to consider and hold the question for further discussion at the next board meeting. Assistant Superintendent Eddie Danzey asked the board to give him approval to make emergency purchases. "Have a bus right now which needs a differential to put it back in commission," Danzey said, adding that by the time he receives quotes at the next board meeting, two weeks will have passed. Joseph Gex, school board attorney, said there was an emergency purchase order he could use, but that there was no legal way for the board to give him the power to purchase an item without the board's approval. The board accepted the low bid for 10 word processors/typewriters for the high school at $839.50 each from Wallace Business Machines in Gulfport. Science and spring sports equipment, itemized by bidder, all received board approval.

Bay postmaster appointed

JIMMY MOORE

BY TRACI BONNEY
Bay St. Louis has a new postmaster. Jimmy Moore, a native of Florence, Ala., was appointed to the position December 29, 1990. He began his postal career as a carrier in 1973 at the Birmingham post office. After eight years as a carrier, he was promoted to station/branch supervisor in 1980, then to supervisor of delivery and collections in 1982 and superintendent of postal operations in 1985. Moore also has served as officer in charge at Alabaster and Bessemer, Ala., before moving to Bay St. Louis. Moore and his wife Cheryl have three daughters, Barbara, Natalie and Laura. Two of the Moore's daughters are avid golfers—one is attending the University of Alabama at Birmingham on a golf scholarship—while their dad says he plays the game a little. Moore's appointment fills a year-long vacancy. Moore said his new post "presents a challenge that I'm looking forward to." His main objective at this time is to learn all he can about the community and the services it needs. His overall goal, he said, is "to provide the community with the best post office in the state."

NASA builds up security

BY TRACI BONNEY
The John C. Stennis Space Center has increased its security in response to the war in the Middle East, according to NASA Public Affairs spokesperson Myron Webb. She said, "Close vigilance is now being kept at the entrances to the space center. A touch-down check is being conducted at the Space Shuttle Main Engine test complex entrance. SSC has also increased roving security." In addition, SSC will not allow non-registered vehicles to use the roads from Interstate 10, I-59 and Hwy. 607 through the site. Those vehicles with decals or passes are the only ones that will be allowed onto the space center, Webb said. Space center officials have also curtailed activities at the visitors center. Webb explained, "Guests wishing to visit Stennis Space Center will be asked to park their vehicles at either the north or south gate. Visitors center employees will pick up and return guests to their vehicles." Tours of the space center will start at 9:30 a.m. and be given every hour on the half hour until 3:30 p.m. "As the situation warrants, additional security measures will be put in place at strategic locations throughout Stennis Space Center," Webb concluded.

Frilot had a personal trip planned to Washington for this weekend. She intended to meet with various legislators and attempt to solicit financial assistance through grants for city improvements. Frilot added, "I called and canceled my appointments and will reschedule the meetings at a later date."

Frilot postpones D.C. trip
BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Mayor Stella Frilot reported she has canceled a planned trip to Washington, D.C. this week because she felt it was an inappropriate time to ask for financial assistance. "How could I go to our government leaders and ask for money, when our country is involved in the expense of a war?" asked Frilot.

In the photo at right, Susan Keenum (left), whose husband has served one tour in Saudi Arabia and is on his way back, and friend Nikki Rowe (center) expressed displeasure to the protesters. Keenum said afterward, "We've got to support our troops and our President." Rowe commented, "They think they're back in the '60s. I think it's uncalled-for." One-way, wrong way

Waveland board repeals change for St. Anthony Street direction

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Approximately 11 property owners appeared before the board of aldermen during a regular city meeting Wednesday to voice objection to St. Anthony Street being made one-way. During the board's last meeting on January 2, the aldermen unanimously agreed to the traffic flow change when resident Yvonne Landry voiced the request. The property owners wanted to know why they were not given an opportunity to voice their preference before the vote to change the street direction took place. Mayor Stella Frilot explained to the property owners that the board took action believing the majority of people along the street supported the change. St. Anthony Street resident spoke out from the packed floor of the meeting room expressing the inconvenience the residents are subjected to by the board's decision. The board rescinded the previous motion to make St. Anthony one-way and agreed to schedule a meeting of all the property owners and residents to discuss both the direction of traffic and whether or not to widen the street. Tony Catania of Lakeshore Body Shop appeared before the board to protest the removal of his business from the police wrecker call list. Upon a recommendation by alderman Barbara Rappold at a previous board meeting, a motion was passed in which Waveland businesses were to receive preference in all city trade. This action caused Lakeshore to be removed from the police wrecker call list since his business is not within the city limits of Waveland. Catania stated his business has worked with the Waveland Police Department for the past three years. He presented the aldermen with a list of monies his business puts back into the city, including the salaries of three of his employees who are Waveland residents, claiming an input up to $90,000 a year. Alderman Stan Weidman expressed a change of opinion upon Catania's presentation and proposed a motion to reconsider the board's new policy of giving city trade to Waveland businesses first. The motion died for lack of a second. Five bids were opened for sewer repairs and improvements to four areas of the city, including Amar Street, Central Avenue, Old Spanish Trail and Beach Boulevard. The board held the bids for thorough check by both the city consultant, Ray Eaton and city attorney, Lucien Gex for verification before making a bid award. The board approved recommendations by the Planning and Zoning Commission for various homes applying for extensions. The Planning and Zoning Commission stated in its recommendations that any future zoning concerns involving gambling must recognize that city limits end at the water's edge and that homes along the beach were zoned residential. Resident Donald Thomas of Sandy Street appeared before the board to ask help with street flooding. The mayor assured Thomas the board was aware of the problem in the area and a comprehensive drainage study was underway.

State requests more ammo plant funds

The state is asking for about $500,000 in additional funds for displaced Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant workers who are being retrained for other jobs. State Department of Economic Planning and Development spokesperson Beneta Burt said the grant application probably will be sent to the U.S. Department of Labor next week.

Earlier this month, weekly stipends to the workers were cut because Mississippi received only $650,000 of the $1.8 million it had requested for the workers. Workers enrolled in long-term programs had their weekly payments cut from $100 to $50; those enrolled in shorter retraining programs were cut from $50 to $30 a week.

Texas man arrested on burglary, larceny

BY TRACI BONNEY

A Texas man was arrested Thursday on charges of grand larceny of an auto, burglary of an auto and grand larceny, according to sheriff's department Investigator Matt Karl.

Chad Harris, 18, was apprehended around 2 a.m. after Deputy Willie Lee began following a vehicle at the intersection of Hwy. 603 and I-10. Lee observed the vehicle traveling at a high speed and pulled the vehicle over to run a license check, Karl said.

He explained that while running the check, Lee noticed a credit card which bore the name of a Kiln resident who had reported the theft of some cash and credit cards earlier in the week.

Karl said Lee arrested Harris and charged him in connection with the theft of credit cards and cash from Vernon Saucier, a burglary of an auto belonging to Tammy Parker, and the grand larceny of an auto belonging to Rodney Reeves, all three of Kiln.

Harris was being held on $15,000 bond at the Hancock County jail at the time of the report, Karl added.

The Sea Coast Echo is compiling a list of military members in Operation Desert Storm who are relatives or friends of local residents. The list on page 1B is not final. Anyone wishing to add a name is asked to call the Echo office at 467-5474.

Also, tell any names were submitted after the deadline to call the office at 467-5474.

South Carolina man held for extradition

BY TRACI BONNEY

A South Carolina man was arrested Thursday on charges of grand larceny of an auto and burglary of a commercial building, according to Hancock County sheriff's department Investigator Matt Karl.

Karl said John Russell Lackey, 20, was arrested by Karl and Deputy Terry Roberson after the Sheriff's Department received a call from Lackey that he had been robbed and kidnapped.

Karl and Roberson arrived at Lackey's reported location on Interstate 10 and checked Lackey's claims, Karl said. He explained that upon investigation and communications with South Carolina authorities, he found out that Lackey was wanted in connection with the burglary of his place of employment and the grand larceny of his employer's car.

At the time of the report, Lackey was being held in the Hancock County jail for extradition by South Carolina authorities, Karl added.

"It is going to take time," said Frilot. "But by this time next year, we should have the problems corrected."

The board was approached by H. Allen Morris Jr. of Futurevision Cable Systems for approval to operate a cable system within the city limits of Waveland.

The board adopted Ordinance 122 to include the Futurevision name.

Frilot gave the board a brief report on previous business saying:

—she had contacted the Hancock County Historic Society, president Charles Gray and solicited assistance with taking all old city records and organizing a library.

—Hancock Medical Center turned down the city from participating in the Health Wise Program; since the city now is covered under Blue Cross.

—swells into Waveland Avenue have not yet been cut due to other weather emergencies.

—the end of Farrar Street and Central Avenue has been repaired.

—Pinewood Street has been cleaned and the erosion has been repaired.

—Sears Street has been paved in the curve.

—Fellgrass Street has been paved.

The board granted permission to Clarence Harris for a march to be conducted on Martin Luther King's birthday, Monday, from Mount Chapel Church to Martin Luther King Park, where a celebration would be held in honor of the civil rights activist.

The board agreed to decorate Coleman Avenue with yellow ribbons in honor of local service people in Saudi Arabia.

Other business approved, included:

—authorization to change order #1 reducing the amount of payment by $330 on painting of elevated water tank on Highway 90 with Mardis Tank Service Co.

—authorization to pay Mardis Tank Service Co. partial payment #3, final payment, $3,844.43 on work completed on elevated water tank on Highway 90.

—a parade permit to the Krewe of Nereids for February 3, 1991 at 2 p.m.

Waveland mayor hires purchaser

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Mayor Stella Frilot has hired a central purchasing agent in an attempt to make spending procedures more efficient for all city departments.

Jean Askew, a five-year Waveland resident, was hired to the new position of central purchasing agent.

"Up until now," Askew reported, "each department has ordered what they need. There has been no control."

Askew said she will take requests from the departments, as needs arise for various purchases. She will gather all quotes on prices and information on best cost service, then make a recommendation.

Askew has worked in purchasing for 20 years with her last position at Dupont Chemical Company for Fairmont Supply Company.

"Our aim is to save money through efficient purchasing," Askew commented. "We want to benefit the people of Hancock County."

She said the city intends to make the best purchases and to give local merchants the first chance at the business.

"We want to try to keep the work here," Askew explained.

According to the purchasing agent, Waveland would have first consideration, followed by Bay St. Louis and the county.

She said the mayor was most specific as to keeping as much work as possible circulating within the community.

As a means of efficient savings, Askew said her office will be setting up and keeping accurate records of all purchases.

Frilot commented about the new Waveland office: "We need this position. Bay St. Louis has a purchasing agent and it is time the city of Waveland has one."

Chapman announces school board candidacy

Arthur J. "Pete" Chapman III of Waveland this week announced his candidacy for Bay St. Louis-Waveland school board trustee.

Chapman, 51, owns Chapman Business Service of Waveland and is a REALTOR-Associate with Coldwell Banker Nell Frisbie Inc. He is an active member of St. Clare Catholic Church, where he led the choir for almost 20 years, and is involved in numerous civil and community activities.

Chapman and his wife Rubie are longtime Waveland residents and the parents of Leigh, 16, Nikki, 13, and Mary Elizabeth, 8.

Chapman said, "I feel my experience as a business owner and as a father gives me a solid background to draw on. Our school system has made great progress, but still has a long way to go. I look forward to the lowest price.

Low bid for an Apple Computer and five disk drives at $1,168.75 was accepted from CNS in Gulfport.

Third-period food purchases were approved on low bids from Conco Food Services of New Orleans, $51,473.88 for canned goods and staples; Mapelli Brothers Company of Gulfport, $60,106.32 for meat and frozen products; and Mapelli, $18,245.58 for juice, pizza and potatoes.

The board approved recommendation to continue the employment of its present central office staff.

They approved to advertise for bids on the lease of agricultural property in the northern part of the county. The leases were previously canceled due to non-payment.

A written policy on how to reduce the employee workforce should any emergency arise, due to budget cuts, was placed on hold. Miller said a possible solution would be random selection.

moved onto the property, she said it has been building over the years, but has started to do real damage during the past three to four years. She said the installation of a pond by a neighbor and timber cutting across the road by International Paper Company may be exacerbating the problem.

However, Shipman said she blames county engineer Larry Seal for the problem. She claimed he has refused to help her in any way.

Gex told her that Seal and the State Aid Road Office have determined the ditch to be the natural drain. The county is prohibited by law from altering a natural drain; therefore, Gex said, the county legally can do nothing to help her.

The State Aid Office determination influences the county's action because Firetower Road is a State Aid road and therefore any work that might affect the road falls under State Aid jurisdiction.

Shipman also asked if the county could clean a pile of dirt and washed away trees from the part of the ditch that runs behind her house so that the water will flow more freely and not cause so much damage. Board president Ronald Cuevas said the county could not do it, since the area in question is considered wetlands. This means the Bureau of Marine Resources prohibits the county from altering it.

Shipman asked what will happen if she dams the ditch. Gex said the county would probably be notified by the State Aid Office that there is a problem with a State Aid road. The county will then have to take those steps required by State Aid to rectify the problem, he added.

Gex suggested Shipman contact an attorney or take her complaint to Legal Services the next time the organization visits the courthouse.

District 5 Supervisor Mike Ladner asked Gex if the board could get a court ruling on the matter to assist in taking the case to the State Aid Office or the BMR. Gex said he would check into the possibility.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

On Friday morning at 7:30 a.m. the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition will be held at the Civic Center, Longfellow Road.

The speaker for the Morning Edition will be Lester Herrington, interim executive director of the Mississippi Gaming Commission.

Herrington is also a deputy state tax commission member and is scheduled to give a status report on the regulations for gambling in Mississippi.

I realize there has been a lot of talk about gaming in Hancock County and the information spread around has not always been completely accurate.

This meeting is open to chamber members and also the general public. I hope there will be a large attendance at this Chamber Morning Edition.

The event is sponsored by the Private Industry Council, which is responsible for administering the provisions of the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) in the five-county area comprised of Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Stone and George counties.

I hope to see you at the Morning Edition.

Many of us have been spending more time than we normally do in front of a television set since the beginning of Operation Desert Storm Wednesday evening (our time).

We have so many of our men and women in the area. The events, which are surprises to some, really make it hard for anyone to predict what will happen next.

The thing that is a constant worry to me is the number of Iraqi Scud missiles still operational. There also must be a lot of aircraft stored in shelters across Iraq.

Another thing is that Iraq has been a defensive country for so many years that there will be a lot of casualties if we are involved in a ground war.

What will happen next is really anyone's guess.

We have to think about the families of casualties. Once they are killed, all they will be is a memory. This is a memory of a loved one family members will face the rest of their lives.

We can all hope and pray that the war will end very soon and casualties will be as few as possible.

Mississippi, by law, must balance the budget

Mississippi, like nearly 30 other states, faces a budget deficit as we begin 1991. That is the bad news.

The good news is that there is a strong commitment on the part of our state's leadership to protect education at all levels from damaging cuts. We also share a determination to fund education adequately enough so that our students can not only compete, but excel.

Mississippi must, by law, balance the budget. We do not operate in the unreal world of Washington D.C., where deficits are carried over and increased from one year to the next.

Even through our tax collections are 7 percent higher than last year, they fall short of estimates upon which the budget was based.

Since we must end each year with a balanced budget, there are three ways to address our current budget crisis—cut programs, raise more revenue or use a combination of the two.

Cuts alone would be devastating to education. Scores of school districts would be pushed into illegal deficits, school buses could be parked, and some employees could be laid off.

In the area of higher education, using massive cuts alone to balance the budget would accelerate the exodus of our best faculty. And students, who already pay some of the highest tuitions of any state in the Southeast, would find a higher education less affordable.

I have made significant cuts already this budget year, but more may be necessary. So far, I have ordered $28 million in cuts, imposed a hiring freeze, grounded state aircraft and restricted out-of-state travel.

Just like the family that is trying to make ends meet, the State of Mississippi has to set priorities during tough times. Despite these actions, it is clear that some more revenue is needed to keep our education system from collapsing.

As I work with the Legislature to balance the budget, I pledge to you that I will seek a solution that is fair to the students of Mississippi. There may not be enough money to do everything we want to do in Mississippi, but we absolutely must continue to improve education. That is the single most important thing we can do as a state to move Mississippi ahead.

At the same time, I will work for a solution that is fair to the taxpayers of Mississippi. I oppose an increase in the general sales and income tax rates because it would likely push our state's economy into a recession and end up hurting us more than helping us. That leaves a whole lot of other options to be considered, however.

The budget crisis that faces Mississippi and threatens education will only be solved by all the state's leadership working together. Mississippians can be pleased that Lieutenant Governor Brad Dye and House Speaker Tim Ford have voiced their strong support for a budget solution that protects and improves education.

We are facing up to the problems and I am confident that we will solve it. Tough times are ahead, and the solutions will not be easy, but our common resolve is the best insurance that Mississippi will continue to progress.

Real life heroes recognized for years of service

On just about any night, it is not hard to find a television drama or movie screen depicting the life and death struggles of our nation's police officers and firemen.

Recently, however, I have had the pleasure of getting to know two real-life role models and heroes—Dennis Dewey of Woolmarket and Fearon Jenne III, the Fifth District Fireman and Law Enforcement Officer of the Year.

At a time when most Americans are concerned about their own well-being and self-promotion, Jenne and Dewey have committed themselves to the betterment and protection of others.

In their capacity of Law Enforcement Officer and Fireman of the Year, Jenne and Dewey represent the hundreds of lawmen and firemen in South Mississippi who daily demonstrate a high degree of selfless community service to our state.

Jenne, a 17-year veteran of law enforcement in Mississippi, worked as a patrolman for the Yazoo City Police Department and as an amphibious tractor crewman for the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve in Gulfport before joining the Jackson County Sheriff's Department in 1975 as a patrol officer.

Named Jackson County's chief deputy in 1988, Jenne is known for a straightforward approach to law enforcement. His philosophy is to enforce the law to the letter, to stand up for what is right and to never engage in any activities for which he arrests others.

Dewey is a veteran of more than 18 years in firefighting. He served as firefighter for the Highgrove Volunteer Fire Department in Highgrove, Calif., as an emergency medical technician in Genesee, Mich., and as an aeromedical superintendent at Keesler before joining the Woolmarket Volunteer Fire Department seven years ago. He currently serves as assistant chief.

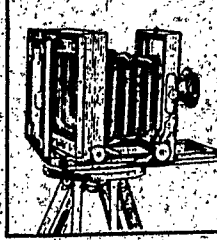

Despite Dewey's normal workday as a production controller at Keesler's 403rd Maintenance Squadron, his family activities and obligations, Woolmarket can count on Dewey to be there in an emergency. Dewey believes volunteers are special people who will increase in numbers in the years to come.

A common thread that binds both Dewey and Jenne is the good example that they provide in both their professional and personal lives.

Jenne is a coach for his son's Dixie Boys Baseball and T-Ball league and is a member of numerous other civic organizations. Dewey is a member of the Air Force Reserve and is currently on a two-week assignment in Panama.

Both Dewey and Jenne are on call 24 hours a day and seven days a week. Like many of our dedicated police and firemen they will be working this time of year when most of us will get to take a holiday.

I am specially pleased to be able to honor Dewey and Jenne. They have taken on the awesome responsibility of protecting the public and have performed their duties well.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

M/E/C

A wise man of 150 years ago left this message:

"What experience and history teach is this—that people and governments never have learned anything from history, or acted on principles deduced from it."

Thirty-four years ago, in 1957, the Mississippi Economic Council warned Mississippians that the public payroll, as compared to other states, was out of control.

At that time, the U.S. Department of Commerce had said, based on a poll, Mississippi was needed only by Louisiana and Florida in the number of employees on public payrolls.

The MEC study noted that Mississippi led all southern states in the number of public employees working on highways and roads, and the state was fourth highest in the number of employees in education.

With state and local governmental payrolls having grown by 18,000 employees over the past five years, perhaps the people need to ask whether demands for expanded non-essential services are being made today.

Hancock Farm Bureau office participates in state celebration

Gov. Ray Mabus has proclaimed January 20 through January 26 as Farm Bureau Week in Mississippi, and special activities are planned in Hancock County and throughout the state, according to Aubin Harris, Hancock County Farm Bureau president.

Highlighting Farm Bureau Week will be a program January 25 honoring the state's senior statesman, Congressman Jamie Whitten, for his 50 years of service to Mississippi.

According to Harris, the week has been proclaimed to recognize the contributions Farm Bureau has made to agriculture, its members, rural communities and the State of Mississippi.

"Since 1920, Farm Bureau members have dedicated countless hours and effort to the counties and people of this state to bring about a higher quality standard of living for farmers and supporters of agriculture," said Harris.

"Farm Bureau in Mississippi has grown to over 172,000 member-families, and we are proud to recognize their support and achievement in making farming a primary focus for the future of Mississippi," he said.

The theme of the week is "The Farm Family; focused on the Future."

Farm Bureau Week kicks off with open houses at the county Farm Bureau offices on Sunday, Jan. 20 and Monday, Jan. 21. Mid-week activities center in Jackson, with a public affairs conference, the Southern Agribusiness forum, women's conference, legislative reception and other events scheduled.

Thousands of Farm Bureau members, county, state and federal leaders are expected to attend the Mamie Whitten Day. The program begins at 2 p.m. Jan. 25 at the Mississippi Coliseum and will include special entertainment and presentations.

"Jamie Whitten has served Mississippi with honor, respect and pride, and we invite the citizens of this state to join us in paying tribute to this great statesman, who has made a positive difference in the standard of our lives," said Harris.

Complimentary tickets to the Whitten Day program are available at the Hancock County Farm Bureau office.

March of Dimes sponsors essay contest

The fifth annual March of Dimes Essay Contest sponsored by Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Mississippi is now in progress.

This essay contest is open to all 7th through 12th grade students. Entitled "When Will I Be Ready To Be A Parent?" this contest is designed to make students more aware of the responsibilities of being a good parent and the problems of adolescent parenthood.

Essays should be no more than 500 words and must be typed or handwritten in black ink. Judging will be based on content (insight into the factors involved in being a parent, recognition of the problems of adolescent parenthood and the medical risks to infants born to adolescents); grammar (correct spelling, grammar and sentence structure); and style (writing technique).

Eight local winners will be selected from each of the two categories—7th through 9th grades and 10th through 12th grades. Each local winner will receive a $100 savings bond and the state winners (one from each category) will each receive a $500 savings bond donated by Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Mississippi.

Deadline for entries is Monday, Feb. 4, and should be sent to: March of Dimes, 4800 McWillie Circle, Suite A4, Jackson, MS 39206.

Local winners will be announced after March 4, and state winners will be announced at an awards luncheon on March 27.

"Let's Have Dinner."

"Your Desk Or Mine?"

For Doctors Jeanne and Robert Eddington, dinner is no ordinary occasion. Because as OB-GYNs who are married to each other, the doctors know that their meals will be occasionally—or frequently—interrupted for a special delivery. The birth of a new baby.

As parents themselves, the Eddingtons know that newborns come at all times. And in all sizes. They also understand the emotional demands pregnancy creates for expectant parents. So they know how to help you deal with these emotions.

The Eddingtons also know that few experiences are more beautiful than the birth of a child. It's one of the reasons they chose their profession.

Another reason they chose to become doctors was to help others. That's why they offer a full range of obstetric and gynecological care, for women and adolescents. Plus the emotional support you need. So when you come to the Eddingtons for care, you're not just treated as a patient. You're treated like a friend.

It's the caring attitude patients appreciate most. And it makes special times—like the birth of your baby—much easier. No matter what time your newborn chooses to arrive.

So if your baby's arrival interrupts their meal, the doctors don't mind. Because whether or not it's dinnertime, the Eddingtons deliver.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy
McGuire Caire

Pork cuts of all sorts head the list of bargain buys at our area supermarkets this week, along with fryer breasts and breast quarters. There are good buys to be had also in beef shank bones for soup and boneless beef stew meat, especially.

There are specials also on pork sausage, links or bulk, and in bacon. In the seafood department, catfish fillets and nuggets are a standout. And, from the vegetable bin—fresh spinach at good prices, as well as cucumbers and fresh mushrooms and celery. Yellow onions are priced especially low. Oranges are a bit "pricy" due to freezes in the groves, but there are good buys in orange juice; and there are piles of grapefruit in the bins, too. Bananas are still a good buy; and there are good prices on canned vegetables just now.

For my part, I plan to marinate a pork roast or several pork chops and cook as in this recipe from that excellent cookbook, "The Plantation Cookbook," compiled some years ago by members of the Junior League of New Orleans. Here's:

PORK WITH ORANGE SAUCE
5-lb. loin of pork (have butcher crack bones) or 8 pork chops 1-inch thick.
Marinade
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/2 tsp. pressed garlic

2 tsp. ground ginger
In a shallow dish combine marinade ingredients and pour over pork. Refrigerate, covered, overnight, turning occasionally. Remove pork, reserving marinade for basting.

(This recipe calls for cooking the loin on a spit or the chops on barbecue pit eight inches, approximately, from coals, basting often, for two hours. If preferred (as I do at this time of year) cook in a 350-degree oven, basting often, for approximately 2 1/2 hours (185° on thermometer). (Pork chops should be browned and fully cooked.) Pour orange sauce over loin or chops.
Orange Sauce
2/3 cup granulated sugar
1 Tbsp. cornstarch

1/2 tsp. salt
20 whole cloves, tied in a cheesecloth bag
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1 Tbsp. grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice
8 orange slices, halved
Place sugar, cornstarch, salt, cloves, cinnamon, orange rind and orange juice in a saucepan and cook over medium heat until thickened and clear. Remove cloves, add orange slices, cover, and remove from heat until serving. (Eight servings)

At times, lazy-way, I simplify the sauce by deglazing the roasting pan and mixing the juices with orange juice and rind as needed, and reducing the sauce down as needed.

Or, perhaps I'll go another way, and cook up some braised pork chops with orange sauce, as in this recipe from another of my favorite cookbooks, "Winners," winning recipes from the Junior League of Minneapolis, Minn. Here's:

BRAISED PORK CHOPS WITH ORANGE AND MUSTARD
6 (1-inch thick) pork chops
Salt
Freshly ground pepper
2 Tbsp. oil
1/2 cup fresh orange juice
3 Tbsp. soy sauce
1 Tbsp. Dijon mustard
3 tsp. honey
2-3 tsp. freshly minced ginger
2 cloves garlic, crushed
Note: I've also done this with Creole mustard which I like very much; and I use only 1 or 2 tsp. ginger, as I prefer a less gingery taste.

At any rate, sprinkle the chops with salt and pepper. Brown in oil in a large skillet over medium-high heat, five minutes or so per side.

Combine the orange juice, soy sauce, mustard, honey, ginger and garlic and pour evenly over pork chops. Cover and simmer over low heat for 30 minutes or until chops are tender and cooked through. Place meat on platter and drizzle sauce over chops. Garnish with orange slices and watercress if desired. (Four to eight servings)

And, if you're really feeling lazy or in a hurry, just mix some orange marmalade with a little mustard and pan drippings for a sauce of sorts, or serve the marmalade and mustard with braised or pan fried chops.

Today's pork offers leaner alternative

Pork's leaner than ever, according to information provided by the National Pork Producers Council.

Fat is a pig no more! That's what America's pork producers are saying to consumers about today's dramatically slimmed and trimmed down pork products.

That's because a recent University of Wisconsin study revealed that eight popular cooked and trimmed fresh pork cuts are substantially lower in fat, calories, and cholesterol than reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) in 1983.

The study was overseen by the USDA to update its official nutrient data on pork. This new nutritional data means that consumers can take heart in knowing that fresh pork is a nutritious meat option.

Fresh pork's lean breakthrough results from a two-year UW-Madison research study involving the testing of the composition of popular pork products found in the fresh meat case in major metropolitan supermarkets across the nation.

Eight of the most popular fresh pork cuts now have less than 180 calories, 9 grams of total fat, 3.5 grams saturated fat and 80 milligrams of cholesterol in a cooked, trimmed, three-ounce serving than previously measured.

"This is great news for consumers who are looking for more variety in their food choices," says Robin Kline, director of consumer affairs for the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC).

Consumers are discovering that there's a new meat on the market—one that is comparable in nutritional value with other meat products.

For example, a three-ounce serving of skinless, roasted chicken breast has 140 calories, 3 grams of fat, 0.9 gram of saturated fat, and 72 milligrams of cholesterol.

Compare that to a three-ounce serving of trimmed pork tenderloin containing 133 calories, 4 grams of fat, 1.4 grams of saturated fat, and 67 milligrams of cholesterol.

As always, fresh pork is a nutrient-dense meat product providing essential nutrients like vitamin B1, and is an excellent source of vitamins B2, B6, and B12, and is a good source of iron and zinc.

To help consumers find out the skinny on fresh pork's lean breakthrough, the NPPC is offering a free brochure that highlights the fresh pork story and nutritional profile.

Consumers can receive a brochure by sending a self-addressed, stamped, business-sized envelope to: NPPC, The Lean Breakthrough, P.O. Box 10483, Des Moines, IA 50306.

"Fresh pork's nutritional advancements are shaping up rather nicely these days," adds Kline. The UW-Madison study shows that fresh pork has become on average—31 percent leaner, 17 percent lower in calories, and 10 percent lower in cholesterol since 1983.

The removable surface fat left on the pork cuts by retailers and meat processors averaged one-eighth of an inch thick on most cuts, down from an industry standard one-quarter of an inch in the early 1980s.

As early as the 1960s, America's pork producers put their hogs on a diet. They began intensive breeding and feeding programs to slim down and shape up hogs.

By 1983, their efforts led to pork products that were on average 50 percent leaner than 20 years ago.

However, research revealed that even though fresh pork's nutrient profile had improved, consumers still harbored misperceptions about fresh pork. Consumers still perceived pork as that fatty meat grandma used to fix.

To re-educate consumers, the NPPC launched its highly successful "Pork: The Other White Meat," advertisement campaign in 1987.

"The 'Other White Meat' made a huge impact on consumers prompting them to take another look at fresh pork," says Kline. "Consumers responded enthusiastically to the 'Other White Meat' message, and also took notice that pork was a viable meat option for nutrition-aware consumers."

As the success of the "Other White Meat" campaign continued, so too did improved methods of raising pork. Producers wanted to find out if the composition of fresh pork has changed since 1983, spurring the UW-Madison study where results showed pork's leaner profile.

The pork industry continues to play a major role in reducing the amount of fat found in fresh pork products at the retail level. In addition, retailers are trimming fat from pork cuts more closely so consumers are getting more lean meat for their dollar.

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Holidays can be blue

Days before, weeks before, often months before Christmas each year, literally millions of people become restless, anxious, depressed and deeply melancholy. It is a mood which stretches right through New Year's Day well into the next year.

By all rules of logic, holidays should generate warmth, excitement, lightheartedness, mirth and an infectious congenial spirit which buoys each and all the people engaged in celebrating.

Yet, the biggest holidays are the worst focus of holiday blues, seasonal depression, the anniversary syndrome or whatever you choose to call the phenomenon. It seems, the larger the holiday, the greater the magnet for all sorts of depressing feelings.

Radio and TV talk shows, newspaper and periodical articles become more numerous from year to year, as people of every profession, vocation, condition and location grapple with the apparent contradiction of merry celebrations and worrisome blues.

And that is not all. Statistically, the huge holidays are the time of the year when more people are depressed than at any other time. Predictably, and worse still, more people commit suicide during these times of merrymaking.

Different people fix on various things which disturb them during holiday merriment. To some, Christmas tree lights typify the dreaded enemy carrying the blue funk of depression which gives the lie to the playful glitter of colored lights. Thus, the very beauty of the lights becomes a cruel irony of sadness.

Others fixate on what they don't have, what they cannot afford and what they are sure no relative or friend will give them. Saddled with sundry bills and needs, many view big holidays, sometimes only subconsciously, as a mockery of their condition.

To others, the pain of physical separation from one or more loved ones generates a loneliness which is multiplied and intensified repeatedly during the seasons of merriment.

Living in a faraway place, having someone in prison or serving overseas can be more than enough to trigger the holiday blues.

Still others suffer more intensely from emotional deprivation or separation. Some have no close, special person to be with them during the holidays, and therefore feel left hanging on the outside of everyone's life. Some have had a special person in their life, but have lost her/him through a breakup or divorce.

Serious physical illness is the heavy cross which some carry into the holiday seasons. Again, they may feel cheated, dealt with unjustly by fate and left with little reason to rejoice. "A little depression, they may conclude, is just the thing for me."

Then there are those who, perhaps in addition to the abovementioned lacks, losses and heartaches, have seen relatives, a spouse, a sweetheart or friends move on to a better life in the eternal presence of God. Bereaved and brokenhearted, they find only melancholy memories in holiday merrymaking.

For these who must wrestle with the cold reality of death, the cycle of holidays serves merely to stir up the anniversary syndrome which is built on the anniversary and/or memory of deaths.

As hard and as gut-wrenching as they are, these triggers of depression all miss the true thrust of the Christmas season in particular. Our focus must move away from personal deprivation.

Instead, our thoughts should turn to what Christmas will give us beyond the pains and depressions of life, as told in the West Indian carol: "Men will live forevermore because of Christmas day."

LOOKING INSIDE

By Pastor Bob
Guidry, Jr.

Do you know who you are praying to?

It is interesting to see the reactions of people to the war in Iraq. Many people are praying for peace and for the safety of our armed forces.

I am glad that our nation, in time of trouble, turns to almighty God for help. However, I wonder why it is that we turn to him only in a time of need.

God is always there, but we as a nation seem to forget that whenever things are going well.

God does not want us to come to him in fear, but in love for him and his son Jesus Christ. It was not fear that caused Jesus to sacrifice his life on the cross for our sins, but love. It is with that kind of love that we must come to God.

"For God hath not given us the spirit of fear: but of power, and of love and of a sound mind." (2 Timothy 1:7)

It is times like these that cause us to look to God for strength. It is sad that during this time of conflict, many people are calling out to a God they don't know.

My concern is not only for the safety of our troops, but for the eternal safety of the families of our nation.

Today most of our families are breaking up. Many of our children are hooked on drugs, and sexual promiscuity is destroying the lives of many young people.

I have said it before, and I will say it again: The devil is out to destroy the family unit in our country.

As we spend time in prayer for our soldiers, take a little extra time for a spiritual inventory. The Bible tells us in 2 Corinthians 6:2, "Behold, now is the day of salvation."

All that is necessary to correct the sins of the past is to turn from your sins and ask Jesus to come into your life to be your Lord and Savior.

It would be a great tragedy to be so close to the solution and miss it. The Bible says in Hebrews 2:3, "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great a salvation...?"

"If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and heal their land." (2 Chronicles 7:14)

St. Thomas Episcopal plans Sunday evening special service

A "Service of Evening Prayer" is planned by St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Diamondhead for Sunday, January 20, beginning at 6 p.m. According to the Reverend Barry Cotter, the Great Litany will be recited in support of our troops and for the coming of peace in the Middle East. All persons are welcome to attend.

Pay Yourself First

Hancock Bank's Affordable New Savings Plan That Pays You MORE...

Higher Interest For The Small Saver

Now there's a savings plan that will let you save as little as $25.00 a month (or, as much as you like) and still receive *6% interest compounded quarterly. The amount you save is limited only by your ability to fulfill your commitment to yourself.

Safe & Secure

Hancock Bank continues to be listed among the Nation's 50 strongest large banks by VERIBANC, Inc. Not only is your money earning top dollar for a plan of this type, but it is in one of the safest banks in the country.

Convenient

The "Pay Yourself First" savings plan is also one of the most PAINLESS means of saving due to its Automatic Electronic Fund Transfer feature which lets you transfer as little as $25.00 weekly, bi-weekly or monthly.

This means no passbook to keep up with, no coupon book, no deposit tickets and no waiting in line. In fact, the only way you can make a deposit is electronically from one account to another.

It's like paying your light bill with a pre-authorized draft directly from your checking account. And, you never see it, so you won't miss it.

Floating Interest Rate

The plan also has a built-in safeguard against inflation. If interest rates go up, your rate will increase. Even if rates go down you will still earn a premium rate.

18 Month Maturity

The plan only requires an 18 month commitment. After that you have ten days during which you may withdraw your funds. If we don't hear from you within that period, the account will automatically renew itself at the prevailing interest rate.

If you have an emergency and need to make a withdrawal, you will be subject to an interest penalty similar to other timed savings plans.

Easy To Open

All you need is a personal account in your name at Hancock Bank or any financial institution. And, there is no opening deposit required.

To open your "Pay Yourself First" account, just stop by your nearest branch and fill out an authorization card. Or, give us a phone call. It only takes a few minutes.

This Year, Pay Yourself First...

Bay students prepare for state capitol trip

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Bay Middle School sixth grade classes of Jane Lamb and Jeanette Handshoe will be traveling to the state capital on Tuesday, Jan. 22.

The students are advocating the renewal and amending of the Mississippi Marine Litter Act of 1989.

The Marine Litter Act is to expire July 1 of this year.

As the bill presently stands, it is unlawful to dump into the marine waters of Mississippi.

The Bay students took on the Mississippi Marine Litter Act as a social studies project when they began to learn how the legislative process worked.

Now, they are part of that process.

They will attend the 1:30 p.m. committee hearing and "if all goes well," said State Senator Vic Frankiewicz, "there might be floor action the next morning."

The bill proposed by the Bay students also requires that hazardous liquids, as fuel, paints, insecticides, etc., be kept in closed containers should they accidentally fall into the waters.

The non-litter allies are also proposing stronger fines for any person caught littering marine waters.

The 1989 bill defines the maximum fines which may be imposed, but gives no directive as to a minimum.

The Bay students are asking a minimum fine of $100 be added for first time offenders and $1000 for second time offenders.

Frankiewicz said, "The kids felt people could get away with nothing for a fine," the way the current law reads.

Included with the heavier fines, the students ask that hours of cleanup be part of the punishment for water pollution.

Even those under 18 years of age, who are presently excluded from the law, are included in serving cleanup time by the amended bill.

These young people are sending a message not only to the adults, "not to litter," but also to their peers.

The sixth graders will be using their time in Jackson to make contact with as many of the legislators as possible and lobby for their causes one-on-one.

Frankiewicz said the bill would probably be continued, either in its original form, or another.

Preparing future politicians

Jeanette Handshoe reviews the litter law amendments supported by the Bay Middle School sixth grade class. The students will be traveling to the state capital to lobby for the continuation of the Mississippi Marine Litter Act of 1989 with even stronger consequences to those who defile their waterways. Children's poster contest promotes family reading

The Hancock County Library Adult Literacy Education Program and the Bay St. Louis-Waveland Chapter I Program are sponsoring a poster contest for Bay St. Louis-Waveland Elementary kindergarten through third grade students.

The purpose of the contest is to promote family reading in the home and to increase the awareness of literacy programs available to adults in Hancock County.

Posters are due at the school by 3 p.m. Jan. 25. They will be displayed in the Bay St. Louis Library for approximately two weeks.

During this time, the posters will be judged. Prizes will be awarded at an awards ceremony at the new auditorium on Feb. 7. Theme of the poster contest is 1991—The Year Families Read Together.

Posters must be half poster board size (approximately 14 by 22 inches) and must reflect some aspect of families reading together.

Any medium (crayons, pencil, markers, paint, cut and paste, etc.) may be used on the poster. Families are encouraged to work together with their eligible student to complete the poster.

For information about the poster contest contact: Hancock County Library, Adult Literacy Education Program, Ruth Krebs, literacy coordinator, 467-5292; or Bay St. Louis-Waveland Chapter I Program, Barbara Cropp, Chapter I counselor, 466-4913.

Great Books plans 'Crito' discussion

The Great Books program of Bay St. Louis will establish a daytime discussion to complement the current evening program.

Meetings will be at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. at the City-County Public Library. The selection to be discussed at each session on Thursday, Jan. 24 will be the Crito of Plato.

In a Great Books reading and discussion group, adults meet informally to read, consider and discuss some of the best books written in the past 2,500 years.

Great books groups usually meet every other week for approximately two hours. There are no requirements except the desire to learn.

Discussion is guided by two leaders—laymen, not experts—who encourage the group to think about problems of meaning in the great books by raising questions.

Further information is available from either the co-leaders, Gigi Raymond at 466-4655 or Richard McCollough at 467-6333.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

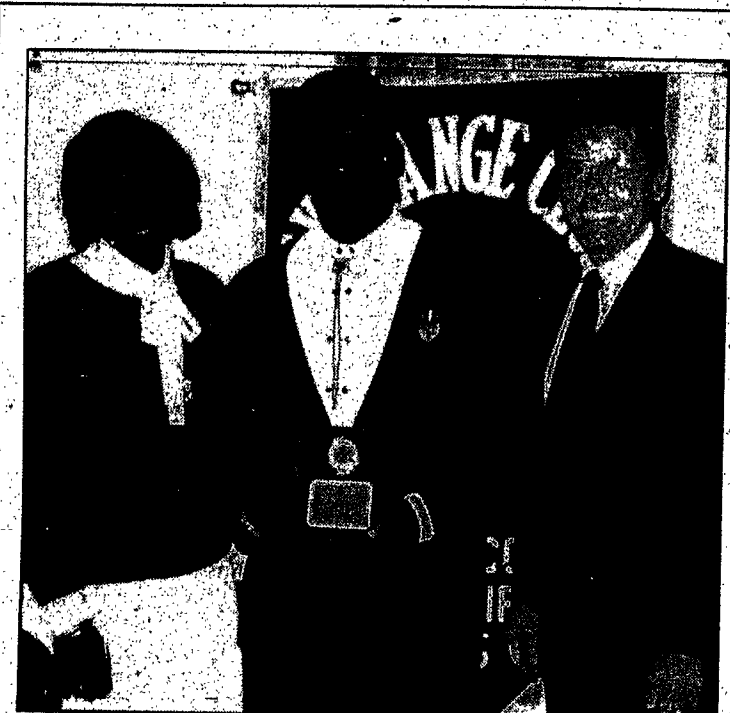

Beta Sigma Phi XI Theta Chapter

Beta Sigma Phi, XI Chapter of Pass Christian met Monday, Jan. 14 at the home of Mrs. Charles Weston.

Members of the social committee and the hostess were thanked for the Christmas party on Dec. 8 at the home of Mrs. Herman Niolet.

It was announced by the president of the sorority that the raffle of the Christmas basket was successful. Profits will be donated to local organizations.

Mary Davids was chosen as the Valentine queen. She will be crowned at the February 20 meeting, which will feature a luncheon. The location will be decided by the social committee.

Student of Month

Ronald (Ken) Booker, son of Dr. and Mrs. Warren Booker of Bay St. Louis, was selected Student of the Month for December by the Exchange Club of Hancock County. From left are Mrs. Booker, Ken Booker and St. Stanislaus principal Brother Paul Montero.

Kiln VFW Post 6285 Auxiliary

The monthly meeting of VFW Auxiliary Post 6285 was Tuesday, Jan. 15 at the post home in Kiln.

Estelle Depreo, president, opened the meeting; chaplain Susie Harmon read the opening prayer; the president led the membership in the recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance; followed by the singing of 'America' and prayers offered for all the troops in Saudi Arabia.

Secretary Mildred Lee read the roll call of officers followed by the reading of the minutes from the November meeting.

The financial report by treasurer Bessie Necaise was given and approved. Bills were presented for payment. Official communications were then read by the president.

A check for $25 was donated by the auxiliary for the department president and commander's reception to be held on Jan. 25 at the Mid-Winter Conference in Biloxi.

A letter from J. P. Smith, voluntary service, Veterans Administration, thanking the auxiliary members for their interest and thoughtfulness, providing hospitalized veterans with a Christmas luncheon and bingo at the post home, was read and filed.

Veterans of the Gulfport VA Hospital and those living in private homes in the area will be entertained with a Valentine party on Feb. 12 at the post home. The auxiliary and post will sponsor this event.

Covered dish supper and social followed the meeting. Next meeting will be Feb. 19 at 7 p.m.

Pass Christian Garden Club

The Pass Christian Garden Club will meet on Thursday, Feb. 7 at the Hancock Bank Civic Center at 11 a.m.

Guest speaker John Wesley Jones Jr., a native of Pass Christian and a graduate in horticulture from Mississippi State, is a member of the Pass Christian's Tree Board and a licensed landscape gardener and tree surgeon.

Hostesses will be Mrs. James Cerra and Mrs. J. A. Hodges. For further information, call Mrs. Warren L. Schulz, president, 452-4092.

Mississippi Writers Club

Ron Grove, journalist and freelance writer, presently employed with the Bureau of Marine Resources, will be the featured speaker at the January meeting of Gulf Coast Writers Association.

The meeting will be at William Carey College in Gulfport Thursday, Jan. 17 at 7 p.m. William Carey is just east of the Naval Home on Hwy. 90.

GOWA is a non-profit organization open to those, published or unpublished, who want to write. General meetings are the fourth Thursday each month.

For more information, call 832-2713.

Hancock Women's Club

The Hancock Women's Club met at the Waveland Library at a rescheduled meeting Thursday, Jan. 17 with Lois Cripple presiding. Amelia Terrebonne was the only guest at the meeting.

Club members voted unanimously to donate $200 each to the Salvation Army for use in Hancock County and to the St. Vincent de Paul Society for purchase of prescription drugs for needy persons.

Following a brief coffee break, with refreshments provided by Joyce Hasling, director of the Crisis Pregnancy Center Linda Mullen was guest speaker. She informed the club of the operation of that group and asked for club members' participation in some of its functions.

The door prize was won by Shirley Tingstrom.

Fun and Games Day will be at noon on Wednesday, Jan. 23 at the home of Marion Quinlan, 124 Old Pecan Grove, Waveland. Bag lunches will be sold to participants and Po-ke-no will be played.

The next meeting will be at the home of Julia Loup, 620 Central Avenue, Waveland, at 11 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 14. She will serve lunch to those attending after the meeting.

Annunciation Senior Citizens

The Annunciation Senior Citizens of Kiln held their monthly covered dish luncheon on Wednesday, Jan. 16 at noon. There were 31 members present. A delicious buffet, desserts and soft drinks were served to all in attendance.

A social and bingo followed the luncheon.

Blood pressures were taken of all members by Edna Harrington.

Those celebrating December birthdays were Edna Harrington, Bob Hubbard and Elus Depreo. January celebrant was Dewey Hoda.

The next luncheon will be Wednesday, Feb. 20. Call the rectory or Estelle Depreo for information. All senior citizens are welcome.

Twentieth Star NS DAR

By Joe Williams Pilet

"I believe in the United States of America," 18 DAR women affirmed in unison when they met on Saturday in the Hattiesburg home of Mrs. Frances Chancellor to take part in the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution ritual, and to summarize activities of their Twentieth Star Chapter.

Normally, recitation of the American Creed serves as a required ritual, but this time the voices spoke softly and convincingly when they said, "It is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies."

Regent Laurie Crowson reminded members the purpose of the NS DAR is to perpetuate the memory and the spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence.

Mrs. Bobby C. Scott, chaplain, asked the group to "Guard well its freedoms."

"Yea," responded the members, "we have a good heritage!"

Orchid Society show continues through today

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Orchid Society annual Orchid Show continues today from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at Edgewater Mall in Biloxi.

In addition to displays from several orchid societies and horticultural exhibits, commercial growers will exhibit plants for sale.

Janie Zuloog of Ocean Springs is president of the society.

Our "Special Addition" Is Great News For Your Special Addition.

It's A Bundle Of Extras For Every Baby.

At NorthShore Regional Medical Center, we know that the birth of every baby is a special occasion. And whether it's your first baby, or your fourth, or any baby in between, every baby deserves special treatment. That's why our Center for Obstetrics & Gynecology offers Special Delivery, our "Special Addition" program providing extra-special treatment and a bunch of extra gifts for every newborn. And their families, too.

Maternity Fashion Show Luncheon.

Your Special Addition special treatment begins long before your newborn arrives. Because we pamper expectant parents first. We start with a Maternity Fashion Show and Luncheon for you, the mother-to-be. You'll enjoy lunch at one of Slidell's better restaurants, compliments of NorthShore. And fashions presented by a popular maternity shop.

Educational Programs.

Your entire family will benefit from our educational programs. Like Pre-Natal Education and Lamaze classes, designed to prepare you for childbirth. Sibling classes, which help big brothers and sisters adjust to the changes the new baby will bring. Pregnagym™, a medically-supervised pre- and post-natal exercise program conducted at NorthShore Health Center and offered free to those who deliver at NorthShore Regional Medical Center.

Peace of Mind.

About a month before your baby arrives, we'll provide you with a beeper, so you can alert your loved ones when you go into labor. It's part of our Peace of Mind Program™ designed to ease your worrying as the big day draws near. If it's after office hours, and you're not feeling quite right, you'll find peace of mind in our emergency room, where you can be examined by an emergency physician at no charge.

A Bundle of Gifts.

It's a special baby shower, and NorthShore is bringing all the gifts. We'll present your newborn with a portable crib. Stroller. Nursery monitor. And an infant safety seat. Of course, we don't want to forget you, the new mother. So we'll brighten your room with a bouquet of fresh flowers.

Mother's Helper.

This is one of our most popular extras. And one you're sure to love. It's the Mother's Helper Program™, giving you the extra help you need the week your baby arrives. A qualified Home Maker will come to your home to assist you with cooking, cleaning, and household chores, compliments of NorthShore. The Home Maker will be available five days, four hours per day. So you can relax a little bit.

Parents' Night Out.

As proud new parents, you deserve a night on the town. Celebrate in style with dinner at one of Slidell's better restaurants. NorthShore will make all the arrangements. And we'll pick up the tab. It's our Parents' Night Out Program™. Enjoy!

First in Healthcare.

At NorthShore Regional Medical Center, our top priority is to provide you everything you need in healthcare. That's why we were the first hospital in the area to offer low-cost package pricing for patients without maternity insurance. And no out-of-pocket expenses for maternity patients with insurance. We were also the first to offer the amenities that have made our maternity program so popular, like maternity beepers and homemaker assistance.

We also know that all the extras in the world don't mean anything unless the care you and your newborn receive is first rate. So we're staffed with the best healthcare professionals available. And equipped with the finest technology.

Neonatal Intensive Care.

Our Neonatal Intensive Care Unit is state-of-the-art, and staffed with a neonatologist and neonatal subspecialists. To ensure that your newborn receives the finest care available, should complications arise. Additionally, both of our well baby nurseries offer your newborn the gentle, expert care of our neonatal nurses.

Your choice for childbirth.

All this, and we still offer the lowest maternity package prices around. And the most extras.

When you add it all up, your choice for childbirth is easy. NorthShore Regional Medical Center. It's a special way to welcome your Special Addition into the world.

Bradleys renew vows

Annie Haynes Bradley and Willie Ezekiel Bradley Jr. of Bay St. Louis celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with a renewal of vows on December 23, 1990 at the Valena C. Jones United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis. The Reverend Bobby E. Daily officiated.

The bride was escorted by her brother, Theodore Haynes.

Sharon Monnet Bradley, daughter of the couple, served as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Willie Haynes Mullins, Evelyn Haynes Wells, Charlene Haynes Hazeur, Marsha Letitia Haynes, sisters of the bride, and Yolanda Nicole Mullins, niece of the bride, all of Gulfport.

Balynda Michelle Wells, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. Craig Norman Labat, nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer.

Derek Ezekiel Bradley, son of the couple, attended as best man.

Groomsmen were Cedric R. Hazeur of Pass Christian, Gerard J. Lymuel of Picayune, Edward S. Bell of Bay St. Louis, Albert M. Mullins Sr., brother-in-law of the bride, and Albert M. Mullins, Jr., nephew of the bride, both of Gulfport.

Serving as ushers were Steve E. McCord Sr. of Gulfport and Tyree R. Haynes, nephew of the bride, of Bay St. Louis.

Nuptial music was provided by pianist Don Hawthorne, with flute solo by Sonya Williams, both of Gulfport.

Vocalists were Inez Lawrence of Gulfport and Charles Johnson of Bay St. Louis.

The couple has resided in Bay St. Louis some 30 years.

Alexander, Roberts named to arts, education task force

A 16-member "Task Force on Arts, Education and the Quality of Life" met in Jackson on Friday, Jan. 11. The task force is sponsored by the Mississippi Arts Commission in collaboration with the State Department of Education.

The objectives of the task force are to —study the current state of the arts in Mississippi schools and communities;

—articulate the relationship of the arts and arts education to economic development and workforce needs; and

—identify feasible objectives for the arts and arts education.

Among taskforce members are Ted J. Alexander (Poplarville), president of Pearl River Community College; and Lucimarian Roberts (Pass Christian), State Board of Education chairman.

Thompson-Nelson

Robert J. Thompson and Sylvia Garcia Nelson will exchange wedding vows Saturday, February 2 at 2 p.m. at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall in Lakeshore.

Thompson is the son of Lucilia Ladner of Pass Christian and the late Erle Thompson.

The prospective bride is the daughter of Warren and Patsy Garcia of Lakeshore. Relatives and friends of the couple are invited to attend the ceremony.

Class of '81 plans reunion

Members of the Bay High School Class of 1981 are invited to attend a meeting Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce board room on Highway 90.

Participants will vote on the date and location of the 10-year reunion.

Historical society to meet

The Hancock County Historical Society will meet Thursday, Jan. 24, for a dutch treat lunch at the Quality Inn at Diamondhead.

At 12:30 p.m., Lt. Col. Patricia Doyle-Reynolds, USAF (Ret.), will present a summary of the history of women in the military.

The meeting is open to the public and all service, former service and militia members.

Reservations for lunch will be made through the telephone committee; others making luncheon reservations should call 467-8201.

The Shortest Distance To Quality Health Care.

Quality medical care should never be too far away. In an emergency or just as a precautionary measure, you need to know that help is always close at hand. NorthShore Regional Medical Center understands that need and has put together a program for people 55 or better that really works.

NorthNet 55 brings together local physicians of the Paragon Regional Physicians Association and you. It allows you to receive medical attention at any time and from any of the NorthNet 55 associated physicians and businesses. And it's exclusive to north shore residents 55 or better. Your own personal health care plan on the north shore. Because when you need medical attention a long drive should be the last thing on your mind. NorthShore Regional Medical Center. Caring in so many ways.

As a NorthNet 55 Member at NorthShore Regional Medical Center, you'll receive:

- Your personal medical emergency information coded on your membership card.
- Hospital discounts.
- Filing of primary and secondary insurance claims on hospital charges.
- Free physician referral service.
- Free one year's membership to Priority Ambulance Service.
- Special discounts at participating pharmacies and other businesses in our community.

It's a family affair in the 1355th unit

Special to the Echo
It's a family tradition.
"In 1977 there were 13 Ladners in the unit," said Staff Sgt. Daron Ladner, a bath specialist with the 1355th Service and Support Company.

There are only four Ladners remaining in the Bay St. Louis-Ocean Springs National Guard unit that was deployed to Saudi Arabia. The unit specializes in bakery, bath, laundry, water purification and fuel distribution.

Two brothers, Daron and Staff Sgt. Michael Ladner, are still in the unit, along with their two cousins, Sgt. Doyle Ladner and Sgt. Penny Ladner. The other Ladners are petroleum distribution specialists.

Daron and Michael's brother-in-law, Sgt. 1st Class Thomas Pavolini, is a full-time technician in the unit. They had another brother who just transferred from the unit prior to the activation.

The Ladners are not the only family in the unit. Staff Sgt. Roscoe Fletcher and his son Spec. Andrew Fletcher are also serving side by side.

The Ladners' tradition appears to have spread to other families in the unit.

Roscoe is a material handling and storage specialist, and Andrew is a water purification specialist. Andrew was a student at Jackson County Community College when he was called to active duty.

Sgt. Randall Cox, a material and storage handling specialist, and Spec. Byron Cox, a water purification truck driver, are two more brothers in the unit. Randall has been in the unit 10 years. "I joined the unit with some friends who are still in that unit, too."

"It (the activation) has sure made a difference in my salary," said Byron, who in civilian life is a salesman for Malone and Hyde Drug Distribution.

Two more brothers, Sgt. Frank Trosclair, a baker and cook, and Sgt. Bryan Trosclair, are also in the unit. Bryan's wife, Belinda, is in the unit but is nondeployable. "We found out three days before the unit was activated that she was pregnant," said Bryan, a load lift operator.

Their older brother, Roland, and a nephew are also in the unit but are nondeployable because of medical problems.

Another nephew is in Advanced Individual Training and will probably meet them in Saudi Arabia.

"I was out of the National Guard, but when the problems in the Middle East arose, I got back in. My brother and I train together and see each other every day," said Frank.

Also in the unit are a husband and wife, Staff Sgt. S. B. Hawkins, a heavy equipment operator, and Staff Sgt. Catherine Hawkins, a full-time unit clerk with the National Guard. S. B. has two children who are 17 and 19.

"They are going to stay with their mother. I feel very fortunate to be able to send them to stay with her. Some soldiers who have little children and the husband and wife are both in the unit are not as lucky," said S.B.

S.B.'s brother, Ben, who is a staff sergeant, is also serving with them. He is a material handling and storage specialist. "My wife is not in the Guard. The separation will be really tough after being together for 20 years of marriage," said Ben.

ON ETV

THE SIXTIES.

A century after the Civil War tore the nation apart, America was plunged into another era of rebellion. During the Sixties, the values, rule and ideologies that many Americans subscribed to for generations—beliefs about race, family, established authority, sexuality and the "proper way" to do just about everything—were challenged and toppled.

What happened? Why did it happen? What does it mean for the nation today? These are the questions to be addressed in a six-part, three-evening miniseries, "Making Sense of the Sixties," debuting at 9 p.m. Monday, Jan. 21 on Mississippi ETV.

Story Hour theme is 'Cats, Kittens'

"Cats and Kittens" is the theme for this week's children's Story Hour at the City-County Public Library, Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis.

Hi, Cat, I Am A Kitten and Garfield and the Tiger are books to be featured Wednesday, Jan. 23 at 10:30 a.m. at the City-County Public Library. Children will make and cut out a spiral-tailed cat and watch a film, "Garfield on the Town."

"Grins and Giggles" will be the theme for the Waveland Library's Story Hour Friday, Jan. 25 at 10:30 a.m.

The Three Sillyies, If You Give a Mouse a Cookie, and Imogene's Antlers are books to be featured.

There will also be finger plays, and children will make a marshmallow fellow and participate in an action rhyme. Children are urged to wear old clothes to this Story Hour.

Weekly story hours are held at the City-County Public Library and the Waveland Library from September through May. Programs last approximately one hour.

Programs and activities are designed for pre-school-age children three to five years old who are not part of a nursery or pre-school group.

Further information is available by calling Sandra Ladner at the City-County Library at 467-5282, or Karen Peoples at the Waveland Library at 467-9240.

When delivering babies, Dr. Douglas Slocum always expects the unexpected. Because, as he has often seen, sometimes the events which surround a delivery can be almost as exciting as the delivery itself.

As an Ob-Gyn, Dr. Slocum is often a part of this excitement. He's been amused by two mothers in labor debating who had the right to deliver first. He's seen even the toughest of men pass out in the delivery room. And he's often reassured anxious family members as they paced the halls.

He has also experienced, first hand, the many emotions expectant parents feel—he felt them, too, when his own children were delivered. So he can easily relate with his patients and their families.

The joys these experiences bring are the very reasons Dr. Slocum chose to be an obstetrician. Because for Dr. Slocum, there's no greater reward than seeing the tears of joy that fill parents' eyes when they hold their newborn baby for the first time.

So when you're expecting a baby, get the complete, quality obstetrical care you expect. From a doctor who understands what you're experiencing, Dr. Douglas Slocum.

The doctor is expecting you.

SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEE'S NOTICE OF SALE

WHEREAS, on June 22, 1988, Dan W. Goodin and wife, Bonnie E. Goodin, executed a Deed of Trust to Robert L. Gentry, Jr., Trustee, for the benefit of Lender J. Estey and wife, Oralette E. Estey, which Deed of Trust is recorded among the records of Mortgages and Deeds of Trust on Land in the Office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi, on June 23, 1988, in Book 319, pages 135-137, inclusive; and
WHEREAS, on January 15, 1991, the Beneficiaries, Lender J. Estey and wife, Oralette E. Estey, pursuant to the terms of said Deed of Trust, substituted Robbie K. Asher as Substituted Trustee, which Substitution of Trustee is recorded among the records of Mortgages and Deeds of Trust on Land in the Office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi, on January 17, 1991, in Book 348, Page 42; and
WHEREAS, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured by said Deed of Trust, and the holder of said Deed of Trust having declared all the amount due, and having requested the undersigned Substituted Trustee to foreclose on the heretofore described real property with all improvements thereon for the purpose of paying said indebtedness or as much thereof as said sale brings.

NOW THEREFORE, I, on the 11th day of February, 1991, offer for sale at public outcry and sell during legal hours between the hours of 11:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M., at the main front door of the County Courthouse of Hancock County, at Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, for cash to the highest and best bidder, the following described real property situated in Hancock County, Mississippi, to wit:

Lots 23 and 24, Square 339, SHORELINE PARK SUBDIVISION, UNIT 3, ADDITION 1, a subdivision of Hancock County, Mississippi, as per the official map of said subdivision on file and of record in the Office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi.

I will convey only such title as is vested in me as Trustee.

WITNESS MY SIGNATURE on this 18th day of January, 1991.

County school boards throughout the state are going to be making difficult decisions next month when they must reduce expenses by $25,500 per county, estimates Hancock County School Board Superintendent Terrell Randolph.

According to Randolph, Hancock School District will absorb the cut without asking for additional tax dollars.

This particular cut will be absorbed directly by each county, since the state does not have surplus funds to lighten the blow.

The state has been performing radical surgery on the education budget all this year (July 1, 1990-June 30, 1991) and on February 1 is cutting another $5.5 million out of the minimum foundation funding program.

Hancock County receives about 47 percent of its funding from the state, of which 60 percent of these monies come from
